Abstract:

A survey field study on the archives of Egyptian institutions websites. The study aims at producing a theoretical framework and presenting local and international applications in the field. Consequently, the study provides indications and results about the archives used in the websites of a sample of Egyptian institutions, and it proposes a method to be followed by the institutions that intend to create online archives. The study adopted a survey field approach in studying foreign applications and a sample of the websites registered in the national domain of Egypt (.eg) which were chosen to investigate website archives.
